Opinion Leaders Seldom Agree...

Rocky Mountain News

February 14, 2005

"CAFTA is the region's most important free-trade pact since the North American Free Trade Agreement that linked Mexico, Canada, and the U.S."

Los Angeles Times

November 18, 2004

"[CAFTA] would be a fitting tribute for a region that has come so far from the chaotic, often deadly, instability of 20 vears ago."

Wisconsin State Iournal

February 22, 2005

"Wisconsin ought to wholeheartedly support the proposed Central American Free Trade Agreement."

Chicago Tribune

December 29, 2003

"The pact would eliminate industrial tariffs ... opening once-closed markets and creating vibrant new opportunities."

San Antonio Express-News

June 6, 2004

"Free trade benefits San Antonio, the United States and our trading partners as well. This is why Congress should ratify CAFTA."

The Times Picanune July 8, 2004

"Local political and business leaders need to work together to capitalize on opportunities that CAFTA could create in the future."

The New York Times

November 24, 2004

"The Central American accord is a good idea that will help job growth in a needy region."

The Tampa Tribune April 2, 2005

"If the measure fails, the United States will be turning its back on one of the most important lessons of the past 60 years: Trade fosters prosperity and peace."

Unless They're Talking About DR-CAFTA

Newspapers across the country agree — DR-CAFTA is good for the U.S. and good for our neighbors. DR-CAFTA levels the playing field for American farmers, workers, and businesses while it continues a twenty-year U.S. legacy of fostering development and stability in Central America.

Continued U.S. economic growth depends on trade.

SUPPORT DR-CAFTA

trade.businessroundtable.org

BR

Business Roundtable